“ I will always cherish our summer visits to Ohio to visit Uncle Gerry and Aunt Eileen (my Godmother). I remember my Uncle was a tall, soft spoken man, and when he showed it he had a broad and winning smile. I also remember he worked for himself which I thought took a lot of gumption (whatever gumption was). His house was always a work in progress, new doors, new rooms, just a hint of sawdust here and there where the work was being done. The rest was spic and span.

Then there was the porch which had underneath these orange cats. I remember they looked like the color of a dreamsicle, pale yellow and soft orange. I've never seen cats like that anywhere else.

As we got older over time I remember his cooking corn in a trash can so he could feed our seven and his nine kids.

It is hard to not have him here but I know my Aunt Eileen has been waiting on him for a while now.

I'm glad they are back together as they are devoted to each other.

God bless them both.
