“ *Andrew its so hard to accept that you are gone.you were like a child of mine i thank you for the bond we shared for trusting in me for listening when you needed to hear me. Ive always tried to be there for you to pick u up when you were down dust you off when you've fallen encourage you when you felt defeated but i feel as though i let you down when you cried out the loudest why didnt i hear your cry why didnt i get that feeling something was not rite.there are so many things i could have done better for your future and im so sorry i didnt give my 100 % .its not for me to question it was Gods will to take you home maybe he has taken you to avoid further tribulations of our society and to avoid pain or hurt that could have been far worst then youve experienced. I know longer have to worry if you are hungry cold or in danger. Thank you for giving me such beautiful memories and your smile will be forever burned in my memorie.i love your positive attitude and your strength you had to keeppushing through.
