Another memory I wanted to share about my step=dad is when I was 4 yrs old, I was watching him shave his face ..it looked like he was having fun and he would look down and smile at me. Of course when the parents were busy doing other things, I went into the bathroom and tried to do the exact same thing, yikes...I cut my face up...it wasn't bad but I remember the feeling I had watching him shave...to me it was a gentle giant putting white cream on his face, how cool was that? Another memory was when I was 15 yrs old, I asked if he wanted to bring my friend and me to a movie ( JAWS just came out that summer), he took us to the afternoon showing. How much fun we had when my friend sat on one side of him and I sat on the other, when a scary part of the movie appeared suddenly my friend and I at the same time grabbed his arm and screamed so loudly, we scared him so much, he yelled like a school girl...too funny!!! This big, strong and fearless dad was a little bit afraid, we all laughed all night. He made our evening so much fun!!! I miss you dad, love Tammy.
